

Development for New Managers

The role of the new manager can be a daunting one! However, effective management is the key to your organisation's success.

Green Ant Consulting offers participative workshops where new and aspiring managers can develop their management skills and knowledge in a supportive forum with other new managers. This can be a highly motivating experience, helping participants to start thinking and behaving from a management perspective.

Each programme will be designed to address your particular needs and current issues. Examples of popular topics include:

- * The role of the manager
- * Leading and motivating your staff
- * The communication process and how to use it to your advantage
- * Managing difficult employees
- * Managing performance and developing your staff

Workshops can be designed as one-off events, as part of a longer term programme or short 'taster' sessions.

Our follow-up and evaluation service ensures that your managers experience real benefits back in the workplace.
